BREATHE EASY

Tired of the hyped-up prices of induction kits and air filters? Do you want high quality new products at secondhand costs? Then you should check out the enormous Simota range available from DP Motorsport (01925 445446 or www.dpmotorsport.com).

No matter what car you drive, you can guarantee that a Simota kit will either be specifically made to fit or can be custom built using its variety of pipe designs.

The kits are top quality too; we know of one high-profile manufacturer that actually rebrands Simota's gear as its own.

The kit pictured is the new 350Z item, and retails at a surprising £104.58 (different coloured pipework is available), while the three filters (pictured below) are samples of a range which starts at only £42.30.

FATT STUFF

The all-new FATT-X is the latest entry-level turbo timer from Blitz. Though priced at only £76.38, it has a number of superior features. For example, it offers both manual and auto timer functions, temperature and voltage displays, and a clock. All these can be displayed in a choice of three background colours (red, orange and green). For more details of Blitz products contact Racelogic on 01280 823803 or visit www.blitz-uk.co.uk

BUCKLE UP

Let's be honest here. You can look a bit of a prat wearing a full race harness pootling to the shops. And yet on the race track, a harness can be invaluable, not only in the event of an accident but also for holding you in place while stretching the limits of adhesion around that flat left-hander.

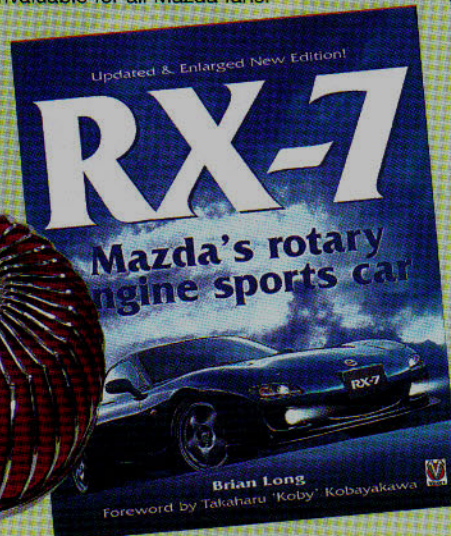

This could be the best compromise, a new product called the CG-Lock, said to offer 80% of the 'holding power' of a full harness. It's a device which clips onto the seat belt, allowing the strap to be pulled tight and stay tight, pinning your hips in place and your spine neatly against the lumbar support. Priced at £49.99 (inc p&p), find out more information by visiting www.cglock.co.uk or call 0870 124 5625.

ROTARY CLUB

Veloce Publishing (01305 260068 or www.veloce.co.uk) has recently enlarged and updated this new edition of the history of Mazda's successful Wankel-engined RX-7 coupés and roadsters, right up to the introduction of the RX-8. Priced at £34.99 and available from all good bookshops (ISBN 1-904788-03-3), the book also offers advice on buying an RX-7, and details the car's production figures and motorsport triumphs. This 208-page tome is invaluable for all Mazda fans.

GUIDANCE COUNSELLOR

ABP Motorsport

ABP Motorsport has produced what it calls the 'Bible for Civic Type-R owners' - a tuning catalogue specifically for the EP3 hot hatch. The company has pooled its 40 years' experience and contacts to make the eight-page catalogue. It is primarily designed to enable owners to easily convert their car into an all-round road and track day blaster. The catalogue is available free of charge, so to get yours give ABP a call on 01270 567177. Make sure to ask about special offer items, too.
